

Having been brought up in rural South West Scotland, Chilcompton feels like a home from home; albeit with a lot less rain and a lot more sun!

I moved to Chilcompton in 2016 with my wife and young daughter. We all made very welcome to village and I was keen to take an active part in village life.

When not busy bringing order to the garden or struggling with the not so flat parts of Somerset on my bike I can be mostly found with my daughter in the Old Rec or with a beer by the river as it runs past the house.

I look forward to continuing on the Parish Council; doing what I can to keep this a great place to live for everyone.
